

Retail Supply Chain Update

August 24, 2020

BJ's Wholesale Club rolls out curbside pickup at all locations

- BJ's Wholesale Club has launched contactless curbside pickup service at all of its 219 warehouse clubs in 17 states.
- Through the new service, which aids COVID-19 safety through social distancing, BJ's members can order from thousands of items on BJs.com or via the BJ's mobile app and have the items brought directly to their car, Westborough, Mass.-based BJ's said Friday. After being notified that their order is ready to be picked up, members park in a designated curbside parking space and check in on the BJ's app to alert the club of their arrival. A club associate then brings the order out and load it into the member's vehicle.

Kroger brings COVID-19 testing to all Little Clinics

- Kroger Health, the health care services arm of The Kroger Co., has expanded COVID-19 testing to its more than 220 The Little Clinic locations in nine states.
- The expansion will enable Kroger Health's licensed health professionals to broaden access to coronavirus testing and convenient care services, Kroger Health said yesterday.
- The Little Clinic in-store locations can test up to 5,000 patients per day, according to the company. Tests are available by appointment.