

Retail Supply Chain Update

September 4, 2020

Instacart enters convenience store arena with 7-Eleven partnership

- Instacart has jumped into the convenience store market via a new on-demand delivery partnership with retail giant 7-Eleven.
- The companies said Thursday that Instacart's same-day delivery service will roll out in phases to more than 7,000 7-Eleven U.S. stores over the coming weeks. So far, Instacart delivery has launched in more than 750 7-Eleven stores in the Dallas, Miami, Baltimore and Washington, D.C., metropolitan markets.

UFCW kicks off new national campaign to restore COVID-19 hazard pay

- Citing the ongoing threat of COVID-19, the United Food and Commercial Workers International (UFCW) union has launched a new national campaign calling on grocery retailers to reinstitute hazard pay for frontline workers.
- Additionally, UFCW said it aims to connect customers and communities with essential workers to urge grocery retailers to guarantee hazard pay — also known as “appreciation” or “hero” pay — as long as the coronavirus pandemic continues.