

Retail Supply Chain Update

November 25, 2020

JBS to cover 100% of COVID-19 healthcare costs for workforce

- As part of their commitment to team member health and safety, JBS USA and Pilgrim's has announced an enhancement to the company's health plan to cover 100% of costs associated with COVID-19 diagnosis and treatment. This is in addition to free COVID-19 testing that has been available for the company's team members since March.
- With implementation of this policy, no JBS USA or Pilgrim's team member enrolled in the company's plan will pay an out-of-pocket health expense associated with coronavirus. This benefit is also available to family members who are enrolled in the health plan as dependents.

Instacart delves into big-ticket retail with Best Buy

- Online grocery delivery giant Instacart has continued its expansion beyond food retail through a partnership with consumer electronics chain Best Buy.
- San Francisco-based Instacart said this week that it offers same-day delivery of electronics and other technology products — including laptops, televisions, home office essentials, headphones, tablets, gaming, smartwatches, streaming media players, small appliances and other items — from nearly all of Best Buy's 1,000-plus stores in 50 states and the District of Columbia.
- With the addition of Best Buy to its retail partner base, Instacart introduced Certified Delivery, a new feature designed to give customers and personal shoppers an easier way to track and confirm the delivery big-ticket items. Through Certified Delivery, Best Buy customers must acknowledge receipt of high-value products by signing for them upon delivery directly in the Instacart mobile app, which Instacart said ensures a “seamless hand-off from the store to their door.”
- Certified Delivery also gives customers access to a larger selection of high-value items not previously available for same-day delivery via Instacart, such as top-end wireless and noise cancelling headphones, wearable technology and smart home devices, the company said.
- To get Instacart delivery, Best Buy U.S. customers go online to instacart.com/best-buy or select Best Buy's storefront in the Instacart app and enter their ZIP code to choose their local store. They then can begin adding products to their virtual cart. After checkout, an Instacart shopper delivers the order within the designated time frame, which can be the same day or scheduled in advance.